We have our Animal Management meeting tomorrow and I should find out more specifics then but our ele manager told [Redacted] that he was thinking the 2nd week in September for her transport. He also mentioned that sedation will be needed for loading. Based on that I would prefer a veterinary staff member to accompany transport (I had a bad experience once after a black rhino sedation for crating and then that animal passing away in transport, resulted in a large fine and action from USDA since we did not have a vet or tech with shipment). [Redacted], what do you think? Do you have someone that you could send?

Pittsburgh has agreed to loan us this elephant, and the move will need to happen before next winter. Timing depends somewhat on if/when we get the elephants from Florida, a decision which is supposed to be coming by the middle of April. I am going to guess we do this one late summer/early fall.

Hi [REDACTED],

I can see the specimen information in ZIMS but not the medical record. Can you request ZIMS medical sharing for this animal?

OMG, [REDACTED] what's up! It's been a long time since our days together at Kansas City. Sounds good on the vet front [REDACTED] our Ele Manager is [REDACTED]. I've cc'ed him on this email. Seeni is out at our ICC facility which is about 2 hours east of the zoo. [REDACTED] can help coordinate whatever you need for your visit and communication with his keeper staff. Hopefully I'll get to see you when you come into town.

Warmest regards,

Hi [REDACTED],

Thank you for sharing Seeni's medical records. Please let me know when her trunk washes are finalized. Given her overall good health status, I as the veterinarian probably do not need to come out and see her, but I think our elephant manager [REDACTED] is still planning to visit. I have included her on this email. Who do your recommend she contact to coordinate visit? I suspect she would want to meet the elephant manager and primary elephant keepers as well as see the daily routine and foot care for Seeni.

Hey [REDACTED]
Trunk wash results on Seeni came in and are negative. [REDACTED], once you have an idea of shipment date either [REDACTED] myself will go out to the ICC to perform a visual exam for the health certificate. [REDACTED], please see below on a statement needed for import permit to WI.

I typically find a turnaround time of 60 to 90 days after submission. We collected the last (3rd) sample on the 15th of June and they shipped out on the 17th. So fingers crossed it could be as early as next week that we get results.

Yes, figured it wasn't difficult but easier to get all the paperwork submitted with the import permit the first time around!

I see that the trunk wash results are not in ZIMS yet - do you have an estimate of when they will be finalized?
